DID YOU KNOW? NEDBANK GOLF CHALLENGE HOSTED BY GARY PLAYER

- The Nedbank Golf Challenge became part of the European Tour International Schedule for the first time at the beginning of the 2014 season. The event became the 11th different European Tour event to be staged in South Africa.
- The event itself started in 1981 and, prior to becoming a European Tour-sanctioned tournament, featured a much smaller field. In its first year it had a field of just five – Seve Ballesteros, Johnny Miller (who won that year), Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Lee Trevino – and the field size often changed throughout the tournament's early history.
- The Nedbank Golf Challenge became part of the European Tour's Rolex Series for the first time last year.
- Branden Grace's victory last year was the first time a South African won the event since it joined the European Tour's International Schedule. Prior to the event joining the Tour, Trevor Immelman was the last home native to lift the trophy in 2007.
- The record winning margin for the event came courtesy of Alex Noren in 2016. The Swede's six-shot victory after finishing on 14 under par was a new record for the event since it became a European Tour event.
- Three players have won the event on three or more occasions: David Frost (1989, 1990, 1992), Nick Price (1993, 1994, 1997, 1998) and Ernie Els (1999, 2000, 2002). Aiming to join that list this year will be two-time winner Lee Westwood (2010, 2011).
- Els holds the tournament scoring record with a total of 263 (-25) in 1999.
- There have been 15 different Major Champions who have their names etched on the roll of honour – Seve Ballesteros, Ernie Els, Raymond Floyd, Jim Furyk, Sergio Garcia, Retief Goosen, Trevor Immelman, Martin Kaymer, Bernhard Langer, Johnny Miller, Corey Pavin, Nick Price, Henrik Stenson, Danny Willett and Ian Woosnam.
- The Gary Player Country Club is the third longest course in European Tour history, at 7,833 yards. In second, 18 yards longer than Sun City, is the Ritz-Carlton Golf in the USA, venue for the WGC-Accenture Match Play Championship between 2009-2011. The longest is another South African course, the Copperleaf Golf & Country Estate, where the 2014 Tshwane Open was played, measuring 7,964 yards.
- The Sun City venue also played host to European Tour competition prior to the Nedbank Golf Challenge. The Dimension Data Pro-Am took place from 1996-1997 and was won by Mark McNulty (1996) and Nick Price (1997).
